WE NOMINATE

Gary Baring Nash, 29-year old "historian-in-the-making" and a prospective university teacher of the first rank, who—on the threshold of the Borough of Princeton's observance of the 150th anniversary of its founding and with the New Jersey Tercentenary in the offing—has made a major contribution to this community's understanding of its historic past. With a subsidy from the highly imaginative, and successful, Festival of The Arts of Miss Fine's School, Nash, in his second year as a full-time University graduate student, is the author of the recently distributed ". . . and Distinguished Guests," an engrossing portrayal of the four months in 1783 when the "obscure village of Princeton" served as the Nation's capital.

Using only standard reference materials but demonstrating the careful touch of the scholar accustomed to developing "research papers," the Pennsylvania-born Nash has compressed into a 23-page monograph the data depicting a hamlet of 300 residents as the "temporary refuge where Congress could rehabilitate its tarnished reputation and work constructively, free from the carpings of city critics and removed from the dangers of post-war social restlessness." This brief publication, flecked with appealing illustrations and the first Nash has written for the general reader, is in the opinion of one authority "the most significant and enjoyable piece of Princetoniana to appear in recent years."

Articulate, the father of two daughters (aged 2 years and 7 months), and some 6-7 years older than the average graduate student, Nash opted the profession of scholarship and teaching only after he had thoughtfully probed other career possibilities. Following some three years of destroyer duty with the Navy, he sought a way of life that would "endow one with a sense of doing something worthwhile." By chance, there was an opening in the University's administration and for the next 30 months Nash did an outstanding job as Assistant to the Dean of the Graduate School. During this period, to determine whether his basic interests lay in educational administration or in the challenges of teaching, he "carried" one graduate course a term.

This part-time exposure to advanced scholarship and to the give-and-take of seminars, "hitting" him some four years after he had completed his undergraduate studies with the Princeton Class of 1955 with only an average academic record, sharpened his conviction that "teaching and history are what I want." In September, 1961, with the warm-hearted approval of his wife (Vassar '55), and with a degree of motivation seldom found in beginning graduate students, he entered upon year-'round study.

A home-owner in Hopewell, whose mortgage and related charges are largely absorbed by a rented second-story apartment, Nash adheres to a routine which emphatically contradicts the time-worn notion that the graduate student's lot is a happy-go-easy existence. Working a 75-hour week, including a 9-to-5 stint in the University Library six days a week, he faces in January the ordeal of general examinations culminated by two hours of oral questioning by a battery of senior faculty members. Beyond the examinations lies the doctoral dissertation that will be a searching exploration of the complex, enormously influential "merchant community in Philadelphia in the 17th century."

For his marked promise as a historian-teacher concerned with "social structure" which is essentially the web of history; for his dedication to the ideals stamping teaching as "the most rewarding of all professions"; for giving Princetonians added insights into their community's "finest hour"; he is our nominee as

THE BACKWARD LOOK

What About '62? The question of its own identity recurred to Princeton many times and in many forms during 1962. Is this primarily an educational community? What about commercial growth? Does the town need, or want, apartments? What about town-gown relations? Can anything be done about traffic? Should Princeton be one community or two?

All these pressed upon governing bodies as they met to deliberate month after month, and upon Princeton citizens as they searched in vain for parking spaces, tried to find modestly-priced places to live, looked affectionately at the pleasant town and countryside of Princeton and hoped to find ways of keeping town and countryside pleasant.

NOTICE

Because of the New Year holiday, TOWN TOPICS' deadline for display advertising for the next issue will be Saturday, December 29, at noon. News stories and classified advertising will be accepted until noon on Monday, December 31. Early copy will be appreciated.

For the first time, consolidation of the two Princetons came under serious study. Early in the year, when the question of school consolidation was raised before school selections, TOWN TOPICS wrote editorially:

"It is nearly a decade ago that an emotion-packed, rumor-laden campaign defeated the referendum seeking to effect consolidation. A great deal within the Princeton community has changed since then but the basic point remains crystal clear: duplication of effort, inability to serve efficiently and needless expense to the taxpayer are the primary products of failure to consolidate. It is wholly logical that the suggested merger of Princeton's two school systems could be the sensible fore-runner of consolidation at the municipal level."

Then, in July, Borough and Township officials, carefully avoiding the actual word, "consolidation," announced the formation of a Joint Committee on Municipal Operations. The committee was appointed in late October and has met twice since that time.

Schools in the News. The question of school merger grew, in part, from the decision of the Borough Board of Education to buy Westminster Choir College land across from Princeton High school. At first, Westminster refused to part with its land. Then, in a surprise move, College officers began negotiations with the Borough Board, and voters later approved, 9-1, the school board's decision to buy the property.

Meanwhile, the Township had informed the Borough that it could not commit the future of Township students to Princeton High School, and Princeton saw the future possibility of two high schools serving two municipalities. As things stand, with 1962 drawing to a close, two parallel school studies are being made by Borough and Township boards.

During the school year, the high-school's new principal, Kenneth Michael, moved into his new job . . . the Township's new Community Park School took in its first students . . . two Negro students came up from the south to spend two years at Princeton High . . . two private schools took giant steps toward the future as Princeton Day Schools and Stuart Country Day (Sacred Heart) moved ahead with the plans for Great Road campuses.

It was a year of growth and change for other institutions, too, and this growth and change had its effect on the whole community. The University decided to implement a long-standing decision to close off College Road, thereby wiping out a route used as a Nassau Street alternative. University officials sought to solve their parking problems by constructing parking lots on Edwards Place, but were refused permission by the Borough. Late in the year, the University was given permission to build a seven-story office building on College Road and University Place.

SITE OF FUTURE EXPANSION

WESTMINSTER CHOIR COLLEGE

SITE OF DEBATE IN 1962: Westminster Choir College's plans for expansion were a major news topic during the past year but were resolved when 18-acre site was finally sold to Borough schools. For a review of the year's top developments, see story this page.

In the Township, residents decided they didn't want apartments, and two applications for multiple housing units dissolved into the record-books.

What Does Princeton Want? As these thrusts and strains waxed and waned, two citizens groups organized to examine Princeton and its growth and to keep a watchful eye on pressures. "Residents of Princeton" was formed by a group of Borough dwellers, and the Princeton Committee on Zoning Enforcement by a Township group.

But life wasn't all municipal solemnity in 1962. Township residents expended millions of decibles in a loud, long wrangle over whether to tie up a dog or let him run. Princetonians given to taking a sip of water found, in May, that there was very little water to sip because a sudden hot spell had sucked the tanks dry; in June that mosquito larvae were sneaking into the house through water-faucets, in October that mouldy leaves in the canal were making water taste like stale tea and in December, that their water company had been sold to another water company.

One of the most serious concerns to occupy Princetonians during the year was world peace, in general, and fallout shelters, in particular. Sparked by an open statement in support of a public shelter program issued by Princeton and Rutgers faculty members, the Princeton community hurst forth with charges, counter-charges and opinions.

92 IN '62: The year was marked by the appearance on drawing boards of the State Highway Department of Route 92, the long-discussed, badly-needed Princeton By-pass. It will run northeast of this community from Route 206 to Hightstown—WHEN the $14 million needed to build it becomes available.

"Our present course is insane" . . . "shocked and horrified by the pessimism of supporting a shelter program" . . . "irrational and emotional" . . . these were some of the epithets used by pros and cons in the course of a discussion that surged through much of the spring in the pages of TOWN TOPICS and in various meetings.

"DEAR PRINCETON:" Linda Almgren's warmly-written reports on high school choir's European tour were a part of the summer scene.

Organizations, as they always do in Princeton, made their own kind of news. The University topped its $53 million drive . . . the Girl Scouts celebrated 50 years . . . the League of Women Voters counted all the things they could find that came from foreign countries, in an effort to dramatize world trade . . . the First Aid and Rescue Squad started construction of its own building.

One of the happiest things that happened in Princeton in 1962 was the high school choir's trip to Europe. Honored by invitations to sing before professional musicians in Europe and at a special youth concert in Germany, the choir traveled abroad last summer on funds raised in Princeton from residents of the town who appreciated the honors paid to this outstanding musical organization.

. . . and Culture. It was not surprising that a community like Princeton should produce such a choir. Culture continued, in 1962, to occupy the town: McCarter Theatre began its third year of professional repertory . . . the University Concerts found it necessary to add two non-scheduled concerts, and announced that its Series I concerts were sold out . . . dancers from Ceylon, drummers from Africa, actors from Formosa performed before enthusiastic Princeton audiences.

On the spiritual side, Princeton listened to the renowned theologian, Karl Barth, who delivered a series of lectures, and heard Pastor Niemoeller when he came in late spring. Father Edward C. Henry of St. Paul's celebrated the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, and Dr. William T. Parker of the First Baptist Church announced his retirement.

A new Rabbi, Everett Gendler, made news almost before his arrival when he spent two days in a Georgia jail as a segregation protest.

Princeton Theological Seminary marked its 150th year, and so did the Penns Neck Baptist Church. Rosedale Chapel dedicated a community building, and the Provincialate of the Marianite Sisters of the Holy Cross dedicated a new chapel at their Drake's Corner Road convent.

Names Make News. People made news in Princeton in 1962. Death took three who were well-known to Princeton commerce: Henry Ballot, owner of the store that bears his name; Belle Clayton Grahn whose father started H. P. Clayton; and Claire Levine of Claridge Wine and Liquor.

Walter P. Hall, emeritus professor of history at Princeton also died in 1962, and so did Elmer Adler, renowned professor of graphic arts, and the Rev. Dr. George Mair. A memorial plaque to Irving W. Mershon was dedicated in the music room of Princeton High School.

Person To Person

Cory S. Kammler

The other day, we heard of a recipe for a Happy New Year which we thought you'd enjoy: "Do not attempt to make up the whole batch at one time, for it works best if you work on just one day at a time. Into each day put twelve parts of confidence, eleven of patience, ten of grit, nine of elbow grease, eight parts of faith, seven of hope, six of charity, five of kindness, four of prayer, three of rest, two of meditation, and one carefully selected resolution. Then put in about a cupful of good spirits, a dash of fun, a pinch of folly, a jigger of laughter, a sprinkling of play, and a heaping cupful of good humor. Cook thoroughly in a fervent heat, garnish with a lot of smiles, a sprig of joy, then serve quietly with unselfishness and cheerfulness . . . and a Happy New Year is a CERTAINTY!" The above is adapted from a radio program put on quite a while ago by Enid Day, and it seems like a good one to haul out every once in a while for refreshing the recipe . . . we think we'll paste it up where we can see it often. And believe us, our very, very best wishes go out to you for the best year ever! Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

BUDGET UP 27 POINTS

For Township Schools. A budget that has inched close to the $2 million mark was tentatively approved by the Township Board of Education at its December meeting last Thursday. Public hearing has been scheduled for January 17. Voters will decide on the budget at the school election, February 13.

The total amount to be raised in the Township is $1,900,082, an increase of $205,646 over last year. It is based on an enrollment of 2,200 boys and girls, 10 percent more than the current year.

The actual overall increase is $307,853, or 18.2 percent, but state aid brings the figure down to $205,746. According to the Board's finance committee, this will mean an increase in the school tax rate from 1.547 to 1.817, or 27 points. Township rateables had increased by $3,900,000 as of October 1. If there has been an additional increase since then, the 27 points could be lowered, the finance committee pointed out.

The increase is less than last year's, Board members said. A break-down on the slowly-climbing cost of education in the Township shows an increase of $162,000 in the 60-61 budget; $362,000 in the 61-62 budget and the $307,000 in the proposed burget.

In their informal discussion of the proposed budget, Township Board members decided to provide for 12 more teachers to take care of the additional students who are expected to enroll in the Township next year. Originally, the Board had planned for 10 teachers, but members decided that it would be prudent to set aside the money for two more, just in case.

Part of the increase is traceable to the Borough's decision to raise high school tuition by $55 per child, bringing the total cost of sending a Township child to the high school to $690.

There are 588 Township boys and girls now enrolled in the high school, and there will be at least 672 there next fall, according to present enrollment figures.

Richard Pearson, chairman of the Township Board, said Thursday night that the Board had had only informal, verbal reasons from the Borough for the tuition increase, and he asked Norman Anderson, Township Board secretary, to write the Borough Board requesting a formal analysis.

Also included in the new budget is $1,100 for subscription to the kinescope services of Channel 13 at the rate of 50 cents per child. Channel 13 is the new educational television channel. Subscription entitles the school, among other things, to pre-program information and teachers guides.

In other action, the Board decided to reimburse teachers for 50 percent of their tuition for approved graduate study, and to engage an architect by mid-January for the alterations to Littlebrook and Riverside Schools.

CANDIDATES FILE

For Township Board. Two of the three members of the Township Board of Education whose terms expire in 1963 will run again for three-year terms, it was announced this week.

Mrs. Jess Eppstein will seek her third term of office and George Grace will run for a second term. Lawrence Thompson, who has served one term, will not run again.

A petition has been filed with Norman Anderson, secretary of the Board, for Donald Riddle, 63 Deer Path, and a petition has been taken out, but not filed, for M. Lawrence Bayern, 152 Terhune.

INCOMING COMMITTEEMEN: Carl C. Schafer, Jr., (left) and John O. Green will be seated on the Township Committee for the first time at Tuesday's re-organization meeting.

DR. LIVELY TO RUN

For Borough School Board. The lists for February's Borough School Board election are beginning to take shape. First candidate to appear is Dr. Robert A. Lively of 39 University Place, history professor at Princeton University.

Dr. Lively testified last August before the Planning Board in protest against the University's proposed parking lot for the backyards between Edwards Place and Dickinson Street. The plan was rejected by the Zoning Board.

Two incumbents will not seek re-election: Dr. Jeremiah S. Finch, English professor and former dean of students at the University, and Mrs. Peter J. McCrohan, wife of the Borough chief of police. Both have served two three-year terms on the school board.

The third incumbent, the Rev. Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, professor of theology at Princeton Seminary, is undecided. "But there's a strong possibility that I will run again," he said.

January 5 is the deadline for filing candidates' petitions with William H. Rhodes, secretary of the Borough Board of Education. The election will be held February 13.

READY FOR '63

Governments to Re-Organize. Annual re-organization meetings of Borough Council and Township Committee will be held on New Year's Day in Borough Hall and Township Hall. Both mayors will give New Year's addresses, and new officers will be sworn in.

There will be no new faces on Borough Council because Councilmen William Walker and Alfred Sorenson were both re-elected in the Township, newcomers Carl Schafer, Jr., and John O. Green will take office as members of Township Committee, replacing Thomas P. Cook and John S. Mount, who did not run for re-election.

All office-holders in both Borough and Township are Republican, and the Republican Club of Princeton will hold an open house for Borough and Township residents following the swearing-in ceremonies. The Open House will be held from 12:30 at the Harrison Street Fire House.

THREE CARS CRASH

Woman Is Injured. Three cars collided at Nassau and Witherspoon Thursday in a chain crash apparently set off by an automatic transmission which failed to transmit.

According to Borough police, two cars were waiting in line at 9 a.m. Thursday for the Nassau Street light to turn green. A third car, driven by John Chasko, 52, 29 Fisher Place, lurched forward, striking the rear of the car, driven by Miss Carol O'Brien, 23, of 56 Edgerstoune Road.

No Gift Is Ever Late

On Christmas Day, the amount contributed to the 1962 TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund stood at $3,193.80. The Fund is in operation 12 months in the year, and no gift is ever too late. Contributions have been received weeks after Christmas is over, and in the summer and fall as well.

Unlike many charitable projects, every cent given is used on behalf of those for whom assistance is sought. All administrative expenses are underwritten by TOWN TOPICS, with the actual use of the Fund directed by the Family Service Agency.

Despite the support of several hundred persons from all parts of the Princeton area, the Fund is still running somewhat behind last year's total. Checks should be made payable to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund and mailed to P.O. Box 664, Princeton.

TOO MUCH OR TOO LITTLE: In March, heavy rains on already saturated ground caused these sanitary sewers on Valley Road and near Harry's Brook to overflow. Few weeks later, Princeton was suffering from a spring-time drought and inadequate water pressure.

This Is Princeton

In the world of sports, the winter of 1962 was marked by two unexpected championships for Princeton teams . . . under the guidance of Coach Tony Borzok, the Princeton High School basketball team won the Central Jersey Group III title, achieving a complete form reversal as it rolled to a fine 16-3 record after having been 1-15 a year earlier . . . and Coach Bob Clotworthy likewise achieved a major upset when he brought Princeton to the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming title in competition with 19 other colleges, including perennial powerhouses Harvard and Yale.

Ferris Thomsen pushed the "repeat" button again when the lacrosse season came along in the spring, leading Princeton to a sixth straight Ivy League title . . . John Conroy made it two in a row in tennis, his team winning the Eastern Association title on the wings of shutout victories over strong Harvard and Yale teams . . . no Princeton area baseball team had much to report save the no-hitter thrown against South Brunswick by Princeton High pitcher Jim Quinn . . . during the summer, RCA won the championship in the Princeton Business softball league and the TOWN TOPICS Trophy.

Fall football was generally disappointing . . . Princeton High had season-long problems, winning only two out of seven . . . the end of the year, however, brought promise of steadily increasing interest with announcement that the school will join the new Group IV Central Jersey Conference with the start of the 1964 season . . . Hun School football was no better than 2-5-1.

Princeton began brightly with its first victory over Rutgers in five years, went on to defeat Columbia and Penn but then unaccountably turned steadily down hill . . . a thoroughly one-sided, 20-0 beating by Harvard was the low point in a 5-4 season . . . it was also marked by an oddity in the Yale Bowl when the home team scored a touchdown on a pass to its T quarterback, which no Princeton player or coach knew was illegal until after the game was over.

There were also . . . a man opposed to digit dialing who tried to rouse the populace to his side . . . a 12-year-old girl who wrote the TOWN TOPICS "Mailbox" editor: "I am very interested in the zoning situation . . ." a young student in Pennington who won a trip to the Seattle Fair as a result of her science project on mice and cancer . . . A motorist who asked why the Borough hadn't installed its parking meters with the slot facing the street so that drivers wouldn't have to plunge into winter snowdrifts to deposit a penny.

The weather was with us, always. The wet March snow brought winds of 50 miles an hour, in gusts, and swept away the shore homes of some Princeton residents There was so much rain that sewers overflowed, manhole covers danced on top of waterspouts, motorists had to be rescued by rowboat from high water and the yardsticks measured 1.98 inches after it was all over.

When things dried out, they really dried out, and a brush-fire destroyed 500 acres of grassland on Carter Road. A summer dry spell was broken with a flood that had Nassau Street ankle deep in rain.

With the New Year shining ahead, Princeton could look forward to another 12 months very much like those now ending; a year when people will become excited about things like dogs, and don't bother to show up when a million-dollar budget is in the works; a year of viewing-with-alarm the thrusts of progress in what is still a small town, and a year of saying that after all, where could you find a nicer place to live than Princeton?

ROUND-UP

Stores were not the only ones who did a brisk Christmas trade—thieves did too—in stores . . . biggest loss was reported at Morris Maple's where $222 worth of merchandise (mostly paint brushes), several cartons of cigarettes and a small amount of cash were taken by an intruder.

At the Prep Shop, two car coats and a sweater were stolen; total value, $87.85 . . . a wreath valued at $7 was taken from the door of the Silver Shop, while at Luttmann's Luggage, Mrs. Margaret R. Van Horn, 11 Patton Avenue, put her purse down near the door, went to the rear of the store briefly and returned to find it and the $90 inside gone.

Christmas decorations were the target of mischief-makers, lacking totally in good will toward fellow man . . . Mrs. Millard Floyd, 144 John Street, reported lights were torn down from her doorway and thrown into the street . . . Dr. Paul B. Che-ebro, 170 Monroe Street, Hun School's headmaster, reported the theft of half a dozen bulbs from an outdoor Christmas tree on his lawn . . . Two small fires, neither requiring more than police attention: one in a chimney at 12

MUSICAL COMEDY: Rosalind Russell, Natalie Wood and Karl Malden star in "Gypsy," coming to the Prince and the Playhouse this week.

News Of The THEATRES

PLAN REGIONAL GROUP

For Ballet. A plan which looks forward to the establishment of a regional ballet company in the Princeton area was announced this week by the Princeton Ballet Society.

According to Audrey Estey, director of the Society, the new company would draw on the best talents among dancers, choreographers and composers from all dance studios in the Princeton area. Such a regional company would give to young dancers the opportunity to learn repertoire, to perform and to acquire professional skills while living at home.

Through this experience, Mrs. Estey believes, a young dancer could develop to the point of qualifying for membership in a first-rank dance company. Also, the regional company would provide a show-case for qualified dancers who have no place to perform because there are so few companies with positions open.

As a start toward formation of the company, The Princeton Ballet Society has announced a program of classic and contemporary ballet by the American Ballet Theatre, to be given in McCarter Theatre on Friday, January 25 at 8:30. With the company will be its soloists, including Lupe Serrano and Royes Fernandez.

The American Ballet Theatre, formed in 1940, was the first American ballet company to perform in Russia (1960), the first to have an international tour underwritten entirely by foreign capital (1951), the first to tour under the auspices of the state department (1953) and the first to tour the European continent (1950).

In the weeks following the performance, auditions for young dancers will be held. Details concerning the new regional organization and the dates for auditions will be announced in succeeding weeks.

Tickets for the American Ballet Theatre appearance may be received by calling McCarter box-office, WA 1-8700.

PLAYHOUSE

In Search of the Castaways (now playing). High humor and great adventure are combined in Walt Disney's newest film, based on the Jules Verne novel.

The adventures include an earthquake, a flash flood, an avalanche, a volcano, alligators, jaguars, mutineers and man-eating Maoris.

The plot concerns a shipping company owner, a scientist and the two children of a lost sea captain as they girdle the earth at the 37 parallel as per instructions found in a bottled note the scieotist has recovered from a shark's stomach.

Teenage Hayley Mills stars as Mary, and Maurice Chevalier, the ageless actor-singer, plays Professor Paganel, the scientist. George Sanders is elegantly wicked as Thomas Ayerton, a double-crossing mutineer.

There is lively music, including a few songs by Chevalier. The entire film has the same tongue-in-cheek mingling of comedy and suspense which made Disney's "Swiss Family Robinson" so successful. Comment: for sheer imagination, you can't beat Verne and Disney.

Gypsy (opens Dec. 31 at 6:30 p.m.) was one of the all-time hit musicals several years ago on Broadway. The film version is nearly intact—the music is Unapproached Architect.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of an open letter addressed to Graham Rohrer, President of the Borough Board of Education:

A most interesting letter from Seymour Montgomery and a quoted statement from you in today's TOWN TOPICS must provoke a reply from me. This does not concern the method by which an architect is picked for a new Borough School (any "method" was not clear in the article); it rather concerns your quoted statement that "every registered architect in the Borough, and every registered architectural organization in the Borough, has been contacted."

May I point out that I have lived in Princeton for 37 years, that I have been a registered architect for 35 years and the Associate Director of the School of Architecture at Princeton University. At the present time I have been entrusted, for instance, with the design of a million-dollar new training headquarters for The Seeing Eye in Morristown, which may bespeak some responsibility as a practicing architect.

I have never been "contacted" by your Board.

all there, the high time and low time, the occasionally emotionally charged story and the contagious spirit of fun.

Rose, the domineering show business mother, is well played by Rosalind Russell. Natalie Wood takes over the show as Louise, who accidently becomes Gypsy Rose Lee, the most famous stripper of them all. Karl Malden is appealing as Herbie, a former candy salesman, who for love of Rose, turned agent, handy man and downfall husband-to-be.

The plot, in spite of the title, revolves around Rose, the terrifying stage mother. The scene is show business 1920 and 1930, when vaudeville was king. And there was burlesque —and Gypsy Rose. A show-stopper is "You Gotta Get A Gimmick," in which three strippers show Gypsy how it should be done, and a dance sequence by Paul Wallace of the Broadway show. The costumes are beautiful and the music is memorable. Comment: lively, sophisticated, musical comedy.

GARDEN

Billy Budd (now playing) Herman Melville's classic story of officers and crew on a British war frigate in the year 1797 presents the extreme in sadism and goodness. Peter Ustinov, as Captain Vere, is faced with the dilemma of choosing between the moral innocence of Billy (played by Terence Stamp) and his technical guilt.

Ustinov wrote the screen play with Robert Rossen, as well as directed, produced and co-starred. He is excellent in the exacting role of the captain who comes to admire Billy Budd, but feels bound by British law.

New to the screen, but extraordinarily suited to the role of Billy, young Stamp acts with convincing charm of naivete. It must be remembered that story was written 71 years ago when heroic characters of fiction were less sophisticated than today.

Robert Ryan is the psychopathic, coldly vicious Claggart, who enjoys the hatreds he instills in both officers and men. Melvyn Douglas plays an aging seaman called the Dansker, who has observed much suffering during his service on the ship.

The rigors of life at sea and the cruelty of discipline in the British Navy during wartime are shown in agonizing details of sight and sound. Because the story is essentially a study in depth of the characters and their suppressed emotions, it develops slowly, gradually bringing forth the strength and power of the moral situation. Comment: justice vs. the law.

ALL-TIME EPIC: Anthony Quinn and Silvana Mangano in a scene from "Barabbas," now at the Prince.

THE PRINCE

Barabbas (now thru Dec. 31) Christopher Fry, English poet-playwright, has fashioned this screenplay from Nobel prize-winner Par Lagerkvist's novel "Barabbas," concerning the assassin and thief whose life was spared when Christ was condemned to death. The film, two years in the making, combines the color and excitement of the brawling early Roman Empire with the intimate, dramatic struggle of a man's inner spirit.

Anthony Quinn, as Barabbas, gives an excellent performance as the drunken brawler, killer and thief. Katy Jurado plays a bawdy tavern keeper in Jerusalem who is in love with Barabbas; Silvana Mangano plays the gentle Rachel, a prostitute who becomes a follower of Christ. Others in the outsize cast (66,175 extras) include Jack Palance as the captain of the gladiators and Vittorio Gassman as Barabbas' slave-partner.

Barabbas' singular and revealing life is told against the backgrounds of Roman glory, Sicilian sulphur mines, the horrors of the arena and the solemnity of the Crucifixion. The film is in color and the photography is particularly dramatic. Comment: epic violence.

PEOPLE In The News

In recognition of the 80th anniversary of the signing of the Civil Service Act of 1883, the Princeton Post Office has given public recognition to its career employees with 20 or more years of service.

They include: Postmaster Charles F. Murray, 41 years; Louis Paulino, foreman, 36; Samuel E. Copner, Assistant Postmaster, 35; James V. Quick, Superintendent of Mails, 35; John Britton, carrier, 33; Edwin Cox, clerk, 32; Stuart Campbell, clerk, 27; Frank Margerum, carrier, 27; and Walter Margerum, carrier 27.

Also, LeRoy Page, carrier, 27; Marsden Peabody, clerk, 27; Andrew Marcoline, custodian, 26; Carmine Altieri, clerk, 22; James J. Davidson, clerk, 22; and Basil Ferrara, Assistant Superintendent of Mails. Robert M. Copner, clerk, James W. Moore, carrier, and Nicholas M. Rosso, custodian, all 20 years.

Michael C. McLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. McLean of Lawrenceville Road, Princeton, has been named layout editor for the 1963 Lafayette College yearbook. A 1960 graduate of Princeton High School, Mr. McLean is also on the staff of the college newspaper and a Dean's List student.

Dr. Robert S. Albahary, a member of the staff of the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, has become a Board Diplomate through the certification of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. Dr. Albahary is also engaged in private practice in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. B. Jesser and their daughter have arrived in Cochabamba, Bolivia, South America, where Mr. Jesser is associated with an engineering firm. Mrs. Jesser is the daughter of Professor and Mrs. Clodius H. Willis, 329 Harrison Street.

Miss Mavis A. Cantril, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hadley Cantril, 124 Mercer Street, is home for the holidays from Cazenovia College, a two-year liberal arts college for women in New York. Miss Cantril is a sophomore.

David K. Groo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Groo, 15 Sergeant Street, is one of three juniors at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., who has been approved by American University to attend the Spring 1963 Washington Semester Program. A history major, Mr. Groo will engage in research and take courses in government and public administration while in Washington, D. C.

Miss Martha F. Trimble, daughter of Mrs. John N. Trimble, 352 Jefferson Road, and Miss Martha S. Greenberg, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leon A. Greenberg, 185 Clover Lane, are on the Dean's List at Smith College. Both are juniors.

Dr. Henry D. Smyth, U. S. ambassador to the International Atomic Energy Agency, will speak on "International Cooperation in Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy" Saturday in Philadelphia at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Smyth is Joseph Henry Professor of Physics at Princeton University and chairman of the University Research Board. The IAEA, based in Vienna, now has 78 member nations.

Miss Karen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Datus C. Smith, Jr., of 29 Wilson Road, has been appointed a foreign service career officer in the U. S. Information Agency. She will begin her duties in Washington on January 7, complete six months of training in this country and then be assigned to an overseas post.

The winner last year of a Federal-College Internship fellowship, Miss Smith was assigned to the German Service of the Voice of America, with which she has done part-time work for the past 12 months. A graduate of Princeton High School, and, last June, of Sarah Lawrence College, she also studied at the University of Colorado. Miss Smith spent a summer in Austria under the Experiment In International Living and a year in Germany at the University of Munich and the Goethe Institut at Ebersburg.

Constance Madeira, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford C. Madeira of 79 Lafayette Road, is home for Christmas vacation from the Stoneleigh-Prospect Hill School, Greenfield, Mass. A sophomore, she is on the honor roll.

Miss Emilie Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Reed Stuart, is home for the holidays from Bradford Junior College, Bradford, Mass., where she is a member of the freshman class.

Denison Bacon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norval Bacon of the Lawrenceville School, won his numerals as a member of the freshman soccer team at Wesleyan University. He is a graduate of Hotchkiss.

Navy Lieutenant junior grade James F. Tidd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Tidd of Cherry Hill Road, has received his "Dolphins" from his commanding officer. The Dolphins is the submariners qualification insignia. A graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Lt. Tidd entered the Navy in September, 1953.

Francis J. Kozesnik of Belle Mead, a retired machine designer for American Telephone and Telegraph Company, will direct the 1963 Heart Fund Drive in Somerset County. Mr. Kozesnik has served as Montgomery Township area chairman and association trustee since 1959.

Stockton Street, home of Edward A Frohling . . . the other started by an overheated electric percolator in Alexander Hall on the Seminary campus.

Eight-year old Donald Owens, 153 Witherspoon Street, rode his bicycle between two cars in a line of traffic on Witherspoon Street Friday and was struck by a car driven by Henry M. Stratton, 33 Dogwood Lane. The boy was treated at Princeton Hospital for a slight concussion, no charges were placed against Mr. Stratton.

The Kingston bridge was rammed again last Thursday by a Fort Dix soldier who was unhurt but watched his car being towed away . . . on Saturday, Roy Pfautch, Seminary student, skidded on a curve on Cherry Valley Road near the Great Road, damaging guard rails extensively.

The day-long snow Tuesday marked the first time within memory that flakes had fallen from dawn 'til dusk on Christmas Day.

Miss O'Brien's car, in turn rammed the car driven by Miss Anna Mari Larson, 21, of Autumn Hill Road. Mr. Chasko told police that a malfunctioning transmission system caused his car to jerk forward.

Miss O'Brien sustained neck injury, was treated at Princeton Hospital and released.

request at the Y office on Avalon Place.

PROGRAM SCHEDULED

By YWCA For Winter. The YWCA will hold ten-week courses in subjects ranging from creative jazz to ice skating. Registration for the classes will begin on Thursday, January 3, and contine through January 5.

Registration hours are Thursday, 6-10 p.m.; Friday, 9-5; and Saturday, 9-noon. Reservations will not be accepted over the telephone.

For girls from ages 2 to 18, a variety of classes are planned. A new course will be given on making marionettes and performing with them by Mrs. George Morton.

Creative dancing will be taught by Miss Alix Taroff as well as classic ballet. Miss Taroff will also instruct classes in creative jazz for students in grades six through nine and the creative dance play for younger members.

Creative Theatre Courses. Three classes in creative theatre have been planned with Mrs. Georgine Hall again instructing. Boys and girls will meet Friday evenings for ballroom dancing. Other similar courses will be held in modern dance, music workshop, painting and mother-child dance.

A program entitled "The Art of Listening" will be taught by Miss Grace Ashton in music appreciation. Mrs. Mari Hegler will instruct a similar class in art.

Other courses for adults have been scheduled ranging in subject from bowling to sewing. Athletic programs include classes in ice skating at the Recreation Center and swimming instruction for all levels of achievement.

Other water activities planned are a diving class and a synchronized swim club for both women and girls. There will be mother-toddler classes for beginning and advanced swimmers and courses for women alone.

ART SHOW PLANNED

By Unitarians. The annual Art Show of the Unitarian Church will be held from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Monday.

The co-chairmen, John Drury and Mrs. W. Howard Klank of Hightstown, have announced that the exhibit will be opeo to the general public for the first time. The showing will be held in the Church School building, Route 206 and Cherry Hill Road.

—KNOTT ON RHODES

Snow this winter has had an unwelcome habit of melting rather quickly, with the next freeze spreading ice where it does motorists and pedestrians alike no good. The number of fender-bender accidents in the past ten days has accordingly been rather high.

Colder than normal as 1902 begins to take its place with other bygone years. Skies will be generally clear through Sunday, but January's long-range forecast is for both cold and precipitation in greater than usual degree.

25 MORE DONORS

For Santa Schultz. Twenty-five business firms have contributed to the "thank-you fund" for Santa Claus Henry Schultz. Mr. Schultz, blind for the past ten years, spent six hours a day during the weeks before Christmas answering calls from Princeton's young folks. The gifts will go to the year-round needs of Mr. Schultz, who is now 77.

Recent donors are: Allen's, Cummins Shops, Liggetts Drug Store, Photo and Art Center, Zinder's, Kuller Travel, Yeoman's Nassau Liquors, Landau's, Nassau Paint, Hulit's, Betty Wright, Clearose, Lahey's.

Also, Farr Hardware, Annex Restaurant, Nassau Food, Viedt's, Luttmann's, Wright Hardware. The Flower Basket, Thorne Pharmacy, Princeton Water Company, Davidson's Market, Town Topics and Nassau Savings and Loan.

CLUB TO ELECT

New Officers. The West Windsor Democratic Club will elect officers for 1963 at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, January 8.

The meeting will be held at the Princeton Junction Firehouse, Alexander Road. All those interested are invited to attend.

THREE LOSE LICENSES

Under Speed, Point Laws. Three Princeton drivers have had their licenses revoked by the Motor Vehicle Department.

Roger T. Lyman, Jr., 20, 198 Carter Road, and Henry A. Greene, 57, 72 Adams Drive, each lost his license for speeding, Mr. Lyman for two months and Mr. Greene for 30 days. Andrew Teague, Jr., 29, 97 Leigh Avenue, lost his for four months on points.

ARMY VISITS PHS

With Tanks, Helicopter. The armour and equipment and men of the Princeton National Guard unit visited Princeton High School on December 18 to show junior and senior high school students a slice of the military life.

Lt. Thomas Murray, demonstration control officer and physical education teacher at Princeton High School, reported that some 25 students expressed an interest in enlistment after the demonstration.

During the course of the program, which lasted from 11:30 to 4, students and Principal Kenneth Michael saw a demonstration of the ground-mounted 50 calibre machine gun, looked over a display of individual field equipment, including gas masks and heard Lt. Murray talk about military problems

CLASSES SCHEDULED

In Creative Theatre. The YWCA will conduct classes in creative theatre for schoolchildren in grades four through eight. Mrs. Georgine Hall will again instruct students in various aspects of dramatic technique.

At the conclusion of the term, the girls will present a playlet before parents and other interested guests. Sixth graders will meet from 3:30 on Mondays; fourth and fifth graders will have classes on the same hours on Tuesdays, and seventh and eighth grade girls will be instructed from 3:30 to 5:30 on Wednesdays.

TRYOUTS PLANNED

For Festival of the Arts. Musical tryouts will be held at the Cambridge School all-purpose room, Kendall Park, beginning at 8 p.m., Thursday, January 3. The tryouts will be for a festival of the arts planned by South Brunswick's Commuters.

If necessary, additional tryouts will take place the following Tuesday when actors will be selected for the dramatic portion of the program. The sessions were announced by Miss Joan Lucas, director and coordinator of the festival.

A community participation project, the festival will be presented on March 22 and 23 at the South Brunswick High School. Among the groups contacted for participation are the Sweet Adelines, the Operatellers and the Dixieland Jazz Band.

Miss Lucas will choreograph the program. The musical portion of the festival will be directed by Miss Joyce Gill and Seymour Weinstein and Arthur Starr will head the dramatic production.

NINE CHILDREN BOUNCING

Trampoline Course Ends. Nine children have passed the beginner's trampoline course at the Princeton YMCA, according to the instructor, Esty Mills.

They are: Mitchell Schoch, Paul LaPlaca, David LaPlaca, James Rake, Chris Holt, Anthony Holt, David Bull, Rusty Jones and Stasia Jones. A new class will begin the week of January 7; registrations are now being accepted at the Y office.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK

Will Address Junior Leagues. The Mid-Winter Conference of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, Region XIV, will be held January 9 and 10 at the Princeton Inn.

Governor Richard J. Hughes will address the dinner meeting on Wednesday, January 9, which is sponsored by the Junior League of Trenton. Mrs. Frederick Kuser of Trenton, a past director of the Region, will also speak. Dr. Clifford G. Pollock of First Presbyterian Church, Morrisville, will give the invocation.

Speakers during the workshop and discussion sessions will be Mrs. Frederick A. Blass, director of Region XIV; Miss Kathryn Bloom, coosultant on arts; Miss Kathryn Oliphant, consultant on education, and Mrs. George Hauptfuhrer Jr. of the regional nominating committee. Two delegates and two observers are being sent from the Junior Leagues of Trenton as well as others from Pennsylvania and Delaware.

80 PERCENT REACHED

In YMCA Candy Sale. The YMCA's Youth World Service Candy Sale has raised $2,400, 80 percent of its goal of $3,000.

Gerald Skibbins, chairman of the program, expressed the hope that the balance will be collected by the end of the month. Proceeds from the drive will be sent to Liberia to train native Y secretaries.

Groups cited for their cooperation include the Blue Angel Junior Hi-Y Club which sold $90 worth of candy within two and one half hours with the help of Bambergers Department Store. Salesmen, more than 250 members of the Y, will be honored at a supper in February.

A YEAR IN RUSSIA

Mrs. Eason Reports. "Women flock to the beauty parlors in Moscow. It only costs 50 cents for a shampoo and a set. A manicure is about 16 cents."

Mrs. Warren W. Eason laughed this week about some of her recent experiences in Moscow.

"You go into the beauty parlors and wait for two or three hours. There's nothing to read . . . you just sit there and stare at portraits of Lenin and Khrushchev. When they wash your hair, you have to lean forward over a big sink.

"The hair styles are bouffant, just like here, and your hair is set with the same big rollers. You go to another room to dry your hair and everybody sits on stools in a circle with their backs to each other. There's only one heat, 'hot,' and you just sizzle!

"You rarely see braids any more. There is this blossoming out by the Moscow women. They even dye their hair. I brought a hair styling magazine with me one time, and the hair colors overwhelmed them. And how those women loved 'Vogue'!"

Whole Family There. Mrs. Eason, who has a quick, wide smile, spent last year in Moscow. Her husband, assistant professor of economics at Princeton University, was researching at the Institute of Economics of the Academy of Sciences under the Cultural Exchange Program. Their daughters, Kathy, 8, and Barbara, 6, accompanied them.

"The Russian children are beautiful," Mrs. Eason commented. "They have bright blue eyes and such rosy cheeks that the American children looked pale in contrast. Our children attended the diplomatic school, but when the weather grew warm, they played with the Russian children who lived in our apartment hotel.

"The Russian girls their age went to school afternoons and returned about 7 or 8. It was not at all unusual to hear these children out playing until 11 at night in the depth of winter . . . they had to be out, their families lived in one room! But they never seemed to mind the cold. They seemed so healthy."

Mrs. Eason thought for a moment of the great differences between American and Russian family life. "In Russia, everybody works. Women would ask my husband, 'What does your wife do at home all day?' It was hard for them to conceive of such a thing.

A Warm People. "The state takes care of the children from six months old on. But a lot of grandmothers live with families and take on the role of mother, as we know it. The children are certainly not neglected. The Russians love kids. I think mine were hugged and kissed more than ever before in their lives! You are really touched by the warmth and emotionalism in these people."

Far from idling at home, Mrs. Eason struggled with Spartan courage against a multitude of everyday difficulties. "How I missed the supermarket!!! The food stores were not clustered together.

"I'd get milk and butter in one store, walk a block to the bread store, and go around the corner a ways to see if there'd be any meat at the butcher's. The problem of cooking is magnified because the quality of food is poorer.

"We were lucky enough to have a limited purchasing power at the American embassy. Each member of the embassy was allowed so many points for importing food, which was shared with us."

Mrs. Eason noted that some Americans who had visas for a year had import points allotted to them by the Russians, "but because my husband's work was politically sensitive, we had to renew our visas monthly and we drew on the embassy for import points." The Easons family was able to buy $110 worth a month at the embassy, at prices double the supermarket at home.

Her cooking was done on a hot plate, placed upon a gas stove for which there was no gas. Her seventh floor apartment, luxurious by Moscow standards, contained three rooms, plus a kitchen and bath. "Usually, three Russian families are each given one room in an apartment such as ours, and they share the kitchen and bath," Mrs. Eason says.

Cultural Life "Thrilling." "Crowded as everybody is, there are wonderful cultural outlets. I've never known such a winter! The cultural life is just thrilling. It's very high calibre. We had as much ballet as we could take in.

"It was wonderful to share all this with our kids. The theatres and music halls were filled . . . there was never an empty seat. And the audiences weren't just the concert type. Many were rudely dressed . . . obviously workers. There isn't much the people can spend their money on in Moscow, so everybody goes to the entertainments.

"And the bookstores are crowded, too. There's one every couple of blocks. Books are inexpensive and profuse.

"There aren't any bars in Moscow. You buy vodka and wine at the fish store. You see a lot of drunken men walking the streets in daytime. They were the first my daughters had ever seen, and it was difficult to explain to them."

The Easons had been in Moscow for six weeks when Dr. Eason was stricken with appendicitis. "He had a Russian lady surgeon, and the surgeon from the American Embassy observed the operation. The Russians are more conservative about post-operative care than we are. He spent several weeks in the hospital. He had a lot of tender loving care—but no baths." She laughed.

Mrs. Eason was struck by the close supervision the Russian doctors give their patients. The entire family went down like tenpins with the horrendous influenza known as "Moscow grippe." "We had a woman doctor who was a real old timer . . . She reminded me of Dr. Munro. She came every day at first and then every two or three days. She was warm and wonderful with the children, especially."

Christmas in Moscow took on a new meaning for the whole family. "You could buy Christmas trees on the streets. There were big, trimmed trees outside of Gum's, the big department store down near the Kremlin, and at Children's World. We'd brought ornaments from home, but we bought more. And then we attended services at the British embassy and brought home with us a Harvard family.

"We put the Mitch Miller album of Christmas songs on the record player and the oldest son of our friends brought his guitar. We brought in an Egyptian and his wife who lived in the building. They were Coptic Christians. We sang and exchanged gifts. It was so darling and so special . . . so meaningful to have Christmas in that little Russian apartment. I'll never forget it."

SEMINARY STUDENT DIES

In Automobile Accident. Richard A. Aughe, 22, a first-year student at Princeton Theological Seminary, was killed last Wednesday in a one-car crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near the Gettysburg interchange.

Mr. Aughe had been a passenger in a car which state police said had apparently gone out of control and struck an embankment. He was thrown clear of the car, striking his head on the highway. The driver of the car, David Nelson of Winfield, Kan., and two other passengers received only minor injuries.

EXPANSION PLANNED

By The Hun School. Sidney S. Gorham, III, has been appointed development director to co-ordinate plans and fund-raising activities for a planned expansion and development of the Hun School facilities. A fall 1964 date has been set as the tentative completion of a new academic building, gymnasium and an additional dormitory.

Dr. Paul R. Cheshre, headmaster of the school, discussed the plans for expansion week with an informal gathering. Some of the details of the proposed plans were explained by the school's architect, Charles K. Agle. Dr. Harold W. Dodds, a trustee, also spoke on behalf of the expansion.

It is estimated that by 1964 the school's present enrollment of 200 will have increased to 220. The larger portion of the increase will be among boarding students.

TWO FINED

In Township Court. Frederick W. Loetscher of 24 Armour Road was fined $25 in Township Court last week for disregarding a stop sign. He pleaded not guilty.

Judith P. Erdman of 80 Rosedale Road was fined $15. She pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right of way.

HOLIDAY PROGRAMS SET

By State Museum. Two special holiday programs for boys and girls will be presented Thursday and Friday morning at 10:30 at the New Jersey State Museum in the State House Annex, Trenton. The programs, which are free, are sponsored by the Arts Committee of the State Museum.

On Thursday, Marie Maxwell, the "Story Lady," will present three popular children's stories, using mounted animals and birds from the Museum's collection to illustrate the stories. A full length color film on the "African Lion" will be shown the following day.

FUND RAISING BEGINS

To Finance YMCA Trip. The Ranger Trip Club, a new YMCA youth program, has begun a campaign to finance a trip to Nova Scotia this summer for 20 boys.

Selected from participants in the Y's summer camp, members of the club will spend ten days in a wilderness region. Allen Beach, who carries on a year-round program of camping activities, is the director of the organization.

The first fund-raising function was a dinner held at the Y. Mrs. Henry Posner was in charge of the arrangements and was assisted by Mrs. Harry Dean, Jr., and Mrs. Ward Whitehorn. Col. William Howe provided entertainment by showing a film of his safari in Africa.

Members of the club, who will gain additional experience in the outdoor life this summer, are helping to finance the program with their personal savings. The group includes Thomas Griggs, Charles Posner, Arthur Wright, Christopher Luecke, Kenneth Kishi, Alfred Gardner, John Houston, Gordon Smith, Andrew McLean, Scott Arnott, Elmer Stout, Alvin Stout, Gregory Whitehorn, Robert Reynolds, Robert Meusel, Lawrence Adler, David Starbuck, William Fielding, Stephen Dean and Richard Winship.

VERNON APPOINTED

As Acting Princeton Dean. Dr. Jack Vernon, associate professor of psychology, will serve as Princeton University's acting associate dean of the college during the second term.

Prof. Vernon, who is assuming the duties of Associate Dean Richard D. Challener, who will be on leave, will also act as secretary of the University's board of advisers. Dean Challener will occupy his leave working on a book concerned with military aspects of American diplomacy.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think teenagers shuld be allowed to buy on credit?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Diana Dillon, 120 Prospect Avenue, junior, PHS: I think in the end, they shouldn't. They tend to leave it up to their parents. They say they'll pay for it from their allowance but then they usually go out and spend it. They never save up enough money. They never have enough on hand when it comes time to pay the bills.

Anita Nowlin, 52 Shadybrook Lane, junior, PHS: No. I don't think it would be good for teenagers. I feel this way they never learn to regulate their spending. They wouldn't have a good idea of how much they have and how much they have left to spend.

David Young, 7 Randall Road, sophomore, PHS: That depends on how much he is backed up finan ially. Teenagers are consistently out of money. If a teenager has a job, or if he can show means of income, then I feel it is alright. Otherwise, no. It could be helpful, though. For instance, if a teenager needs a sport coat for a certain night, he'll have to spend his date money and he won't be able to go any place. That's when a credit card would come in handy. But I feel he should first have his parents' okay.

Ernest Pignona, Cherry Hill Road, sophomore, PHS: I think it would be all right if they had some money in the bank, so they're not just buying without anything back of them. They might see something they'd like and not have the money handy. The teenager doesn't have much of anything; there isn't much he can do. I think he should be given the opportunity to buy on credit the same as adults. I don't think they would be any better or worse than adults are with credit. There are a lot of adults that have credit cards in stores who don't have any money. Some might abuse it and stick their parents with the bill. But I think if you have your parents' consent, it is okay.

Buff Lawrence, 177 Library Place, sophomore, Miss Fine's School: If a girl is on a clothes allowance, I think it is a good idea because whatever she charges will come out of her own funds. I think parents should have the say whether the teenager should get the charge in the first place; the parent should decide if a girl is mature enough. I feel a teenager is dependent on his parents until he is 16. But there is a great difference between a girl 16 and one 13.

Nick Long, 7 Edgehill Street, junior, PHS: I think it all depends on the carrying charges. If the terms are easy and the teenager has the money, I don't see why he couldn't buy on credit. But it is better to pay cash if you can, just as it is for an adult. I've bought things on time and it wasn't too rough to get payments in on time. I don't see where it teaches teenagers not to value money. In fact, I think it teaches them some good. If your car is going to be taken away from you because you can't meet the payments, then you'll know better next time.

Peggy Mather, 522 Prospect Avenue, PHS sophomore: I think it would be marvellous in Renwick's but you would have to have some way to determine if the individual teenager was going to be responsible or not, obviously. Otherwise, I think it would be nice.

Jon Christiansen, Princeton Junction, junior, PHS: Yes, I think they should. When they get older they are going to do it anyway, so why shouldn't they do it when they are young. You might as well get them used to it early. Maybe it will teach them something.

Gayle Lovelace, Maple Avenue, Plainsboro, sophomore, PHS: Yes, I think it is okay. I don't think it encourages spending. I believe it teaches teenagers how to handle money; I think they learn the value of money and not to run their bills up so high.

Marty Rahm, 21 Maple Street, junior, PHS: Yes, if they have a job in order to pay it back. If you just have a credit card in your hands, you go out and spend money foolishly, but if you have to think about paying it back then you'll spend it more wisely. Most of the stores around here, I understand, won't give you a charge account unless you are 18.

Bill Guthrodt, 50 Wilton Street, junior, PHS: I think girls should be allowed to have them because most of them don't have jobs and their parents fork out everything. For that matter, I think boys should be allowed to buy on credit, too. I have a car. If I need a part for it I have to wait until the weekend when I work to get some money to buy it. It would be much easier if you could pay all your bills at the end of the month like an adult. Safer, too, because you could keep all your money in the bank.

Serge Agadjanian, 17, New York City, mail clerk: I think they should because most of the teenagers are busted most of the time. Mom and Pop don't like to hand out money all the time. But if teenagers can't get money someway to get something they want, many of them wind up going out and stealing it. Money is especially hard to come by for a teenager during the week. If they were allowed to buy on credit, they might not steal so much.

HEARING SCHEDULED

On Bank Branch Proposal. A public hearing to consider the application of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company to build a branch at the intersection of Route 206 and Rocky Hill-Mt. Rose Road has been scheduled for January 4 by State banking and insurance commissioner Charles R Howell. The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. in Room 441 of the State House Annex

The bank has its official headquarters in the Princeton Shopping Center and a branch office in Princeton Borough The only other bank in the area is the First National Bank of Princeton

"IN YOUR OPINION . . ."

Thorne's To Conduct Survey. A special survey of customer opinions has been undertaken by The Thorne Pharmacy in Princeton and Princeton Junction, as part of the stores' continuing efforts to improve their services.

Some 2,000 customers of the Pharmacy, selected at random, will receive a questionnaire in the mail. The answers will be tabulated and processed by Chilton Research Services of Philadelphia, which designed the questionnaire.

"We sincerely want to know how to make our stores in Princeton and Princeton Junction of more service to our customers," said E. Everett Campbell and Paul A. Ashton, owners of the pharmacy. "The answers in this study will help us improve our services and merchandise lines. We hope everybody who receives a questionnaire will fill it in and return it promptly."

Dividend Declared

Shareholders in the Nassau Fund were notified this week that they will receive a quarterly income dividend of 10 cents per share and a 46 cents per share slice of the capital gains distribution.

This brings the total of income dividends for the year to 37 cents per share and the total of capital gains dividends to 46 cents per share.

The Nassau Fund, a balanced mutual fund, is managed by the investment advisory firm of Harland W Hoisington, Inc. Princeton area residents who are members of the board are Mr Hoisington, Harland W Hoisington, Jr., Leighton H Laughton, Robert G. McAllen, Edward Sampson, G Dykeman Sterling, John H Wallace, Jr., and Hugh D Wise, Jr Jay D Cook is secretary-treasurer.

CYANAMID IS CITED

As New Good Neighbor. The American Cyanamid Agricultural Center of Princeton is one of 10 award-winning buildings throughout the state in the New Jersey Business Third Annual "New Good Neighbor" competition The ten buildings represent the finest new construction in the state from June 30, 1961, to July 1, 1962.

Plaques were presented to the architect, builder and nominator in each instance. The architect for Cyanamid was Voorhees, Walker, Smith, Smith & Haines, New York City; John McShain, Inc., of Trenton, builder; and H Lester Barlow, West Windsor Township Industrial Committee, nominator.

Collectively, the ten winning structures represent a capital outlay of $50 million in construction and equipment. They have created additional employment for more than 7,000 at an estimated payroll of almost $45 million.

BE PENNY WISE

Post Office Admonishes. With postage rates due to increase January 7, Postmaster Charles F Murray advises businessmen "to take a close look at their mailing practices to determine if they are operating with maximum economy and efficiency."

Postmaster Murray feels that in many cases businessmen, through sound methods of handling the mail, can offset the postal rise Proper use of postage scales and meters, in particular, can minimize losses First class mail and air mail especially should be checked for correct weight and postage

During the past two years the Post Office has placed special emphasis on devising new techniques to assist business in mailing operations All post offices, including Princeton's the postmaster said, have special mail technicians who are available on request to assist those desiring better mailing practices.

Also cited by Postmaster Murray was the National Improved Mail Service, introduced last year. NIMS encourages large mailers to mail in the morning and thereby avoid the late afternoon rush when nearly 75 percent of the first class mail reaches the post office. Knowing dispatch schedules lessens the chance of mailers having to pay higher postage to meet special deadlines, Mr. Murray said.

RETIRES FROM RCA

After 30 Years Plus. Loy E. E Barton of the technical staff of RCA, has retired from the laboratories after more than 30 years of service.

Joining RCA in Camden in 1929 as a radio engineer, Mr. Barton remained there until 1946 except for a brief period when he worked for the Philco Corporation and for the Naval Research Laboratory. While at Camden, he built RCA's first personal radio receiver.

After World War II, he became group supervisor on the development of RCA's Teleran air navigation system, and since 1946, he has played an important part in the development of transistorized portable radio receivers. Approximately 75 United States patents have been issued in his name. He received RCA Achievement Awards in 1951 and 1956 and was named an honorary member of the Audio Engineering Society in 1957.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton live on Province Line Road.

SHOW GOES ON THE ROAD

Tigers Create Attention. An intriguing Princeton basketball team, which is attracting large crowds at home and on the road, heads south this week on a three-game post-Christmas tour. The Tigers will go into areas where attendance upwards of 10,000 is not unusual but they will have a major share in keeping the ticket-takers busy.

Duke, rated second in the nation until it lost a couple of close ones last week, is first on the schedule Friday night at Durham, N. C. Next night, it will be Davidson in the Charlotte Coliseum—and Davidson was the team that toppled the Blue Devils from their lofty perch in the national rankings. From North Carolina, the Tigers will head for Pittsburgh, playing Pitt at 4 o'clock on New Year's Eve.

Last Wednesday's game at New Brunswick was another indication of Princeton's current drawing power, with sophomore Bill Bradley heading a team that is playing interesting, occasionally flashy basketball. Some 2,700 spectators packed Rutgers' gymnasium, and more were turned away when the place was full.

There was a double magnet: the hope that a fair Scarlet quintet would manage an upset victory over Princeton, which has not lost in this rivalry since 1953; and the advance press notices on Bill Bradley. Even during the pre-game warm-ups, his unusual flow of motion and his extreme accuracy drew audible ripples of approval from a crowd which would have liked nothing better than to see him and the other Princetonians soundly shellacked.

The Game Was Rough. Hopeful that if it could eliminate Princeton's big men from the game it might win, Rutgers played a tight-guarding, close-contact game. One Scarlet player let Bill Haarlow get away from him and stuck out his leg from a reclining position, the effect being to trip Haarlow neatly. Bradley, too, had his man beat on a driving lay-up. An arm shot out, Bradley ran into it and was promptly called for charging.

The officiating was by no means one-sided, but it did develop early into one of those whistle-tooting affairs that result in a constant parade to the foul lines. Rutgers' strategy almost worked for a while: Bradley was withdrawn from action with 18 minutes left in the second half after he picked up his fourth foul; Haarlow was charged with his fourth with 12:48 to go and sophomore Don Nieman committed his fifth at 8:28.

By game's end, however, Rutgers paid the price of its strategy. Three of its players fouled out and after the home team had matched the Tigers in field goals at 27-all, it was thoroughly beaten at the free-throw line.

Whereas Rutgers made but 15 of 25, Princeton caged 30 of 38. The performance of the five Tiger starters was almost perfect—before the substitutes took over, they made 26 out of 29, headed by a 9 for 9 performance by Bradley and 10 for 11 by Captain Art Hyland.

Rutgers led briefly in the first half but fell behind by 35-25 at the intermission. The Scarlet came within six points soon after play resumed, and a roar went up when Bradley drew his fourth foul and was replaced by sophomore Don Roth.

If the Tigers were expected to fall apart without the glue that their star performer provides, no such cracks in their armour appeared. Haarlow caged 11 of his 14 points in the second half, Hyland upped his output from 7 in the first to 15 in the second and Bradley came back to help wrap matters up after a minute on the bench. It was an 84-69 final, the 16th in a row over Rutgers.

Sizzling Statistics. Playing with a cold and a charley-horse, Bradley wasn't feeling up to par but it never showed. He was eight for 14 from the floor in addition to his perfect night from the foul line, making 25 points in the 30 minutes he played.

As the Tigers head south, the big sophomore is shooting at a .548 pace on field goal attempts and a whistle-producing .921 from the foul line. He has 149 points in six games and is a lead pipe cinch to become the highest-scoring sophomore in Princeton history.

The team as a whole is also compiling a set of fine shooting figures. Its composite field goal average is a great 498, while it is making better than makes the difference!

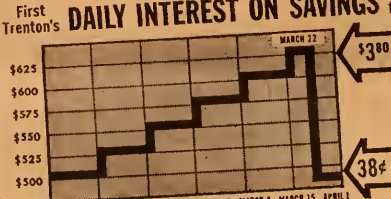
First Trenton's DAILY INTEREST ON SAVINGS gives you more for your money!



$3.80 interest earned at First Trenton
38¢ interest earned at many other banks

Here's a saver who has $500 in his savings account on January 1. He deposits $25 every two weeks until March 22, when he withdraws all but $50 from his account.

How is interest figured on your savings account? The method can be more important than the rate. Study this chart. Why this tremendous difference in interest over just one quarterly period? Because, when your savings earn DAILY INTEREST, they earn interest from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal—not just on the low balance during the calendar quarter. And, at First Trenton, 3% interest is compounded every three months. This interest then starts earning DAILY INTEREST, too!

three free throws out of every four it is awarded with a .751 performance.

Its attack has averaged 74.8 points a game to 59.7 by the opposition. Worth remembering, too, is the fact that three of the six games have been played on the road in a sport second only to golf in the advantage familiar surroundings give the home team.

If Princeton goes into the post-Christmas season with a 6-0 mark, it may very possibly be 6-4 before it returns home and still be a good basketball team. Victory over either of the North Carolina quintets would be a major upset; Pitt, led by a rugged sharpshooter named Brian Generalovich, will be almost as tough to beat on its court.

After that comes Penn in the Ivy opener at the Palestra, and on paper, at least, the Quakers are the team to beat for the 1963 title. But if the Tigers can win all seven league games at home, add victories on the road against the weaker teams (Brown, Harvard, Dartmouth, Columbia), they'll have 11 contests out of 14 on the right side of the ledger. In a tight race, 11-3 is generally good enough for at least a share of first place.

TOURNAMENT A SUCCESS But Not For Hosts. The University of Toronto Schools of Ontario, Can., won the Lawrenceville School Hockey Tournament last week, but the host team finished on the opposite end of the ladder.

Lawrenceville, 0-3 on the season, was eliminated from championship competition on Thursday morning at Baker Rink, losing to third-seeded Lakefield of Ontario, 6-0. Scoring only one goal in the two-day, eight-team tournament, the Larries dropped a 3-1 decision to Kent School Thursday afternoon and were trounced, 7-0, by Hotchkiss in Friday morning's seventh-place consolation contest.

Toronto took home the Piel Memorial Trophy by defeating Belmont Hill of Belmont, Mass., in the final round Friday afternoon. The Canadians pushed home six goals in the first two periods and then coasted to a 6-3 victory.

Toronto's first line combined for a total of 12 points with Terry Peterman, a junior center, and younger brother of a Princeton freshman, picking up two goals and three assists. Peterman opened the scoring of the championship game on a 35-foot slap shot with an assist going to wing Jim Bews.

Bews capped the Blues' scoring by snapping the puck past beleaguered goalie Henry Atkins from five feet out with 3:01 left in the second period of third member of the top Toronto line, Bob Lightbody, pulled the hat trick with a goal in the opening period and two in the following 12-minute round.

Toronto, seeded first, advanced to the final game by virtue of its opening round victory over Kent, 4-3, and its semi-final defeat of Lakefield. The Toronto school is now 4-3 on the season.

The best-played game of the tournament took place Thursday evening at Baker Rink between Belmont Hill and Nichols of Buffalo, N. Y. The Massachusetts team edged the New York squad on Kent Parrot's 15-foot slap shot with slightly under six minutes remaining in the game.

NEARS RECORD: 1963 may be less than a week old when Johnny Cook breaks Princeton's all-time scoring record of 118 points. The All-Ivy forward, a Kingston resident, has a total of 114 goals and assists in his three-year career.

Belmont defeated Choate, 7-2, at Lawrenceville's Lavino Rink on Thursday morning. Rodger Mattlage and George Olive paced that victory with two goals apiece.

Lakefield and Nichols provided the most tension-packed contest of the two-day affair with a 3-2 decision going in favor of the New Yorkers. John Walsh, a senior forward, gave Nichols third place on his penalty shot.

According to tournament rules, if a sudden-death overtime does not break a tie, each team selects one man who simultaneously attempt to beat the goalie. With Walsh and Alan Cato of Lakefield scoring on their second tries and missing on their first, third and fourth, the game was not decided until the fifth attempt.

The order of finish: Toronto, Belmont Hill, Nichols, Lakefield, Choate, Kent, Hotchkiss and Lawrenceville.

DEFENSE COUNTS, TOO As Little Tigers Prove. The Princeton High School basketball team held Pennington to a scant 12 points in the second half to come from behind and defeat the Bulldogs Friday evening, 45-38. It was the Little Tigers' second victory in two games.

PHS will risk its young but perfect record next against Hunterdon Central Wednesday evening at 7. The contest will be played at Flemington. Coach Tony Borzok, who hopes to keep his team in shape with a scrimmage against the alumni during the holidays, reported that he knows virtually nothing about Hunterdon. "I've seen one box score on them," he said, "and they lost that."

"The kids played a tremendous defensive game against Pennington," reported Borzok in review of the low-scoring victory. "It was a team effort all the way. There were three of our boys with double figures."

Coach Borzok was also full of praise for the defensive play of captain Hank Schmidt, in guarding Pennington's captain and high-scorer, Ken Case. Case had 31 against Allentown, but Schmidt held him to 11," said Tony. "Hank," he added, "gets a lot of pleasure out of playing defense. He looks over the box score to see who top scorer is on a team and then says, 'That's my man.'"

Madden Breaks Tie. In spite of Princeton High's fine defensive play, it might have all gone for naught if it weren't for Larry Madden. Fortunately for the Little Tigers, Madden has a penchant for scoring in the all-important final quarter.

To the dismay of the home fans, Madden hit for four baskets in the final three minutes to break a 32-32 tie. "I don't know what it was that got him going," said Borzak, "but Larry broke through for a couple and Dave Hill streaked through for another and that sort of broke it up. It was a good ball game all the way."

Madden shared top scoring honors with Schmidt, each making 12 points. Jimmy Case added 11 more, his high performance, and John Kowalski and Hill connected for 5 apiece. Together they are Borzok's five "iron men." "I'm going to stick with these five all season until I see someone on the bench who can play better."

After just two games, Tony could report that he thought his team was poised and played well together as a unit. "I think we have five boys who want to team with one another. The game was close, we were behind, but there was no excitement. They have all the confidence in the world; they made no irrational moves. It was the other team that took time out, not us.

"I think the kids have reached the point where they can adjust to any type of defense and know what they are doing, which is a good thing. I don't have to call a time out and draw them a diagram. To me, this is progress."

Although Tony feels PHS is "off to a good start," he predicted all is not going to continue to be sweetness and light. Ahead lay stronger teams. Steinert, The Little Tigers sixth opponent, has two 6-4 players on its squad.

In its first two contests, PHS, not a tall team, has enjoyed a slight height advantage. The question to be answered is how far confidence and poise will carry the Little Tigers against taller quintets. So far Princeton High has proved that the answer is quite a distance.

SANNINO ALONE AT TOP

In Industrial League. Sannino A. C. moved into sole possession of first place in the YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League, after the fifth week of play, with a decisive 78-43 victory over RCA Labs. Labs and Sannino had shared the lead with 4-0 records.

In other contests, Educational Testing Service defeated RCA Astro, 53-29; McGraw Hill won its second straight by trouncing Princeton Hospital, 76 to 12; and Princeton Post Office won its first, a 48-36 decision over Food Machinery and Chemical. The league will resume play after the holidays.

The leading scorers in Sannino's big victory were Dick Cooper with 21 points, and Bob Kehoe and Carl Beltz, each hitting for 14. Al Meyers with 17 points paced ETS to its fourth victory in five games.

Skeet Muse and Joe Day combined for 37 points, 25 more than the entire Hospital quintet could score, to push the winless losers deeper in the cellar. The Post Office's first victory was a team effort, with Vincent Mazzella's 11-point performance the team high.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Sannino A. C.	5	0	1.000
ETS	4	1	.800
RCA Labs	4	1	.800
RCA Astro	3	2	.600

ROWLING NOTES

Basile Narrows Margin. Mike Basile swept three games last week in the Individual Classic League and cut Joe Baldino's lead to one game. Basile, with a 27-15 mark, is a game up on Gudio Ziaetti and 1½ in front of Joe Trani.

Frank Maddalon won two of three contests and now has a 24-18 record for fifth place, four out of first. Mike Zeccola, a game behind in sixth, was the only league member to surpass the 200 mark with a 203

In the Industrial League, the Crescents won all of their three games to widen their lead to eight points. The Princeton Elks, Tiger Garage and National Bank all went winless to remain in a three-way tie for second place with 50 points apiece.

Para Lab is in fifth place, 18 points off the pace, and the Reformers are last, 20 points out of first. Walt Bell's 203 and Otto Olsen's 197 accounted for the top games of the week.

In "A League action, Cooper and Schafer swept three games to move six points up on Grover Lumber. The leaders have a 54-point total and are ahead of third-place Yeoman's by 12 points.

Russ Watson rolled a 203 for the only game that cleared 200 He was followed by Jim Wheeler, 197; Frank Cawley, 196; and Alfred Perna, 193.

RETURNING HUN LETTERMEN: Guy Wirsig (left), captain Alex Langel (center) and Richard Patt are the returning lettermen on the Hun School basketball team.

Dutch Neck won two games to cut Lawrenceville's Tri-County League lead in half The leaders could only manage one victory and now have a two-point hold on first place with a 54-point total. Rocky Hill dropped to third place, four out of first, and Kingston was five points off the lead in fourth place.

Norman Luck bowled a 223 to edge out Bill Whatley by two pins for single-game honors. Other games bettering the 200 mark were rolled by George Luck, 214; Frank Stofko, 212; and Stan Tantur and George Calligaro, each with a 202.

Jefferson Plumbing held onto a four-point lead in the Women's Industrial League with a 72-point total. Decker's Dairy was in the second position, eight points in front of Bill's Men's Shop.

Betty Frazee came closest to collecting 200 pins for ten frames with a 193 score. She was followed by Margaret Drummond, 184; Sara Rose and Irma Mihan, 180 apiece; and Lillian Burrough, two 178-games.

Topics Of The Town

(The following article, "With Him All Is Over," is one of a series on historical events written for the New Jersey Tercentenary Commission to help publicize the State's 300th anniversary in 1964. Its author is John T. Cunningham.)

HISTORY WAS MADE

When Rall Failed to Listen. Utter darkness closed in on Col. Johann Gottlieb Rall as December 27, 1776, neared its end. He lay near death in Stacy Potts' home in Trenton, his glorious career nearly done—both from the standpoint of time and of luster, for Johann Gottlieb Rall had erred almost beyond belief.

Col. Rall had brought a brilliant reputation to the banks of the Delaware three weeks before. His courage, his skill and his ferocity had earned him the name of "Hessian Lion." He could be liberal, hospitable and generous.

But, the "Lion" had a weakness: he simply could not believe that he faced a resourceful enemy, Washington? Bah!

Officers urged him on December 15 to dig in north of Trenton lest the Americans attack. Rall angrily exclaimed: "Let them come! We want no trenches. We'll at them with bayonet!"

Deserters' Tip Dismissed. Time after time reports reached the Colonel's ears that an attack was brewing, and each time he heard such, the commander seethed. On the morning of December 23 two American deserters told him that the army was being readied for an attack on Trenton. Rall scoffed in disbelief.

Major General Sir James Grant, arrogant and self-assumed commander of the 4th British Brigade in Prince Town, roused himself from a warm bed "past 11 at night" on Christmas Eve to forward a hasty and worried note to Rall: " . . . Be upon your guard against an unexpected attack on Trenton."

Christmas Day dawned gray, and Rall's mood matched the morning. An officer urged that baggage be hidden in case of sudden attack. Indignantly, Rall snapped: "If they come, all they can hope for is a good retreat."

Later in the morning another urgent dispatch from Gen. Grant forced Rall out into the raw air to reconnoiter through the outskirts of town. He talked with some of the guards, checked their reports and angrily wondered why his tormentors kept needling him about an attack even on Christmas Day, the day of celebration so beloved by Hessians.

Christmas Checkers. Rall trotted his horse back into town, passing the stone army barracks where sounds of Christmas cheer made the gray dawn seem less bleak. The Colonel went directly to his headquarters, the home of Stacy Potts, and he and Potts began a quiet game of checkers.

Upstream, on the Pennsylvania side, the movement that would ruin a lifetime reputation was underway. By 3 p.m., at nearly the precise time that Rall moved his first checker, some 2,400 American troops milled outside a ferry house, waiting the order to move toward the boats that John Glover's Marblehead fishermen had gathered.

Word had come to General Washington from Col. John Cadwalader at Bristol, downstream: he didn't think he could cross. Washington sent him a quick note:

"I am determined, as the night is favourable, to cross the river and make the attack on Trenton in the morning. If you can do nothing real, at least create as great a diversion as possible."

Out into the night went Washington, to face a situation seemingly so hopeless as to confirm Rall's suspicions. His rag-tag troops had little except spirit; many of them were barefoot, and all of them suffered from the intense cold. As for Washington's belief that the night was "favourable," one of the men in the boats wrote:

"It was as severe a night as I ever saw. The frost was sharp, the current difficult to stem, the ice increasing, the wind high."

Attack a Complete Gamble. But off they moved, out of the snow and into the boats. The attack had begun—a glorious, foolish, one-shot gamble.

Col. Rall continued at checkers, his spirits rising in response to the warm fire and the fiery drinks. Abruptly, at 7 p.m., shots echoed through Trenton. Rall leaped to his feet, fearful; was Grant right?

The colonel didn't lack courage; he led his picked regiment into the darkness, only to find that the shots had come when a small band of Americans—unrelated in any way to the crossing—had attacked a Hessian outpost just for fun. Rall wondered: "Would this damnable spoiling of a holiday never cease?

"Would his men ever know these "farmers" could do no harm? This was Grant's feared attack!"

Evidence In Writing. Completely relaxed, Rall stopped by Abraham Hunt's house for Christmas supper and a cheerful game of cards. Near midnight a Pennsylvania Tory farmer who had also braved the icy Delaware demanded to see the colonel.

Rall refused and the Tory scribbled a note warning that Washington was on the way. The colonel tucked it in his pocket, unread.

Thus Col. Johann Gottlieb Rall misplayed his last ace. He had been handed every high card; he had thrown all away in the belief that his opponent was stupid.

Still everything lay in Rall's favor, for nothing went well for Washington. Blinding snow hid the landing on the New Jersey side.

Ice floes rammed the boats and flying spray coated cannon with ice. Men's feet and fingers froze and the hours ticked agonizingly away until it was almost 4 a.m. before the little army moved through the snow toward Trenton.

They struck at 8 a.m., appearing out of the sleet and fog and swirling through town like a violent nightmare. Rall awakened from a grog-laden sleep, much too late to keep the American forces from a stunning victory. But then Rall had been too late for nearly two weeks.

The "Hessian Lion" fell, mortally wounded, during the last stages of the battle and his aides carried him to Stacy Potts' home. By then the American triumph was complete; later, statisticians would say the Hessians lost 918 killed, wounded and captured while the Continentals had lost only four wounded.

Washington visited the fallen Hessian commander, gave him his parole of honor and promised kind treatment for Rall's men. When he left, Rall picked up a slip of paper—the note the Tory had written at Abraham Hunt's on Christmas Eve.

"Hatte ich dies zu Herrn Hunt gelesen, so ware ich zest nicht hier," whispered Rall sadly: "If I had read this at Mr. Hunt's, I wouldn't be here."

The colonel died on December 27, a great military career in ruin. Forever he would be scorned as the scapegoat for the Trenton debacle. His epitaph, wryly double-meaning, said: "Here lies Colonel Rall; with him all is over!"

News Of The CHURCHES

CHRISTMAS IN THE CHAPEL: The choir of Princeton University Chapel has been decorated for the Christmas season.

KNOW YOUR PASTOR

(Another in the series on Princeton area clergymen presented from time to time by TOWN TOPICS.)

Rev. Mr. Weaver Installed. The Rev James S Weaver, former military policeman and army chaplain, has been installed as pastor of the 165-year old First Presbyterian Church, Dutch Neck.

He spoke last week of his pastorate, a congregation of about 530 communicants. "I hope," he said, "that our church kind of undergirds the members in their daily lives.

"The old concept of the minister's role has changed. It is true he must know their needs and get close to them—that doesn't change—but the ministry of a church is much greater than that.

"The members of the church must discover their own personal ministry in the world. And the minister, somehow, has to help his people get involved in wrestling with faith in their daily lives. Faith is more than a passing reference on Sundays."

The Rev Mr Weaver, a graduate of the University of Virginia in 1950 and Princeton Theological Seminary in 1953, is keenly concerned with the needs of the young adult. "We know that few of the young people who go through our churches become deeply involved in the Christian faith.

"But we are trying to involve them to the point where they live it . . . so that the decisions they make in life are related to their Christian faith. We can hope that one day they will come to church for strength to prepare themselves for service in the world."

"FAITH IS MORE than a passing reference," the Rev. James S. Weaver, newly-installed minister of Dutch Neck Presbyterian, comments on weekday Christianity.

The Rev. Mr. Weaver, stepped from the academic world into harsh reality when he enlisted in the Army as a private and found himself assigned to the military police. It is rare for a seminarian to serve as an enlisted man, he admits, but "having been an MP gave me great insight." He applied for a chaplaincy in 1955, after about a year and a half in the ranks, and was assigned to the Second Infantry Division, Fort Richardson, Alaska, and in Washington State.

"The Army conceives of a chaplain as a religious leader, and does not burden him with a lot of social activities. I had no sense when I was there that the chaplain was used to create good morale, although he has a tremendous influence on morale. Rather, I felt that to the Army, the needs of spiritual life had great importance."

Married In 1958. He met his wife, the former Harriet Schroeder of Quincy, Mass., at Fort Richardson. She was teaching one of the four or five third grades in the "magnificent," modern territorial school. They were married in 1958 and have two children, Linda, 2, and James, Jr., three months.

Following his discharge, the Rev. Mr. Weaver served for four years as associate minister at the Montclair Central Presbyterian Church.

"I came here from a metropolitan New York church, so I am qiute struck by the beauty of the rural setting, the fields, the neatness of the village. I happen to like colonial architecture very much . . . our church is a little gem."

He added, "I felt that here things might move a little slower—which is good. And I hope that we can get away from the kind of busyness that you sometimes get—all kinds of organizations meeting in the church. It kind of exhausts people.

"This church's people have always been pretty much community minded. They serve on the school board, the township government, the fire department, and so on. I hope the church strengthens them in their decisions."

Turning his thoughts again to the young members, the Rev. Mr. Weaver said, "We have just decided to employ a student assistant from the Seminary to work with the church school and young peoples' groups. There are about 300 in the church school, and we have a fairly strong youth group. His work will be to help deepen the activities that are going on.

"We are trying to get our young people involved. We'll hold discussions to bring Christian thought to bear on everyday situations—ways in which Christians should conduct themselves on a date, what does the Christian faith have to say about racial segregation, the migrant workers. If we can try to help the young people now, then I think they will have started a way of thinking and living which we hope they will continue.

"For example — how does the Christian faith relate to driving a car? The young people starting to drive must remember that here is an application of 'thou shalt not kill.'"

BULLETIN NOTES

Copties. Dr. Abd-al Malik of the American University, Cairo, will discuss "The Coptic Church" this Sunday at two special assemblies for the First Presbyterian Junior and Junior High School Departments. Dr. Malik is on leave at Princeton Theological Seminary where he is preparing a dictionary for the Arabic Bible. The assemblies will be held at 9:30 and 11 a.m.

Chimes. The organ chimes at the Methodist Church are being amplified at 4:30 daily during Christmas Week. The donors of time and talent are Mrs. George Bowers, Miss Laverne Jackson, Miss Marilyn Kann, Mrs. Ray Knell, Miss Phyllis Parker, Mrs. Paul Pelsey, Fred Stroup, Mrs. Loyal Updegrove and Miss Mary Young.

Collegians. Two Presbyterian pastors have extended holiday invitations to college students. Dr. Donald M. Meisel of First Church has invited all college age young people of the church to supper at 7 p.m. this Friday at the manse. The Rev. H. Dana Fearon of Lawrenceville, will be host at a luncheon at 1 p.m. Monday for all who are home from college.

Obituaries

Miss Sarah B. Stockton, 93, of 110 Bayard Lane, died December 22 at her home. A lifelong resident of Princeton, she was a descendant of Richard Stockton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

She leaves a sister, Mrs. L. Wardlaw Miles; and a brother, David H. Stockton, both of Princeton. The Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, conducted the service at her home. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery under direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

James E. Monroe, 78, of 261 John Street, died December 18. He had formerly been employed by Princeton Borough and the Ivy Club.

A native of Richmond, Va., and the husband of the late Virginia Taylor Monroe, he is survived by a son, Henry, of Detroit; four daughters, Mrs. Geneva Briscoe, Miss Vanola Monroe and Mrs. Mildred Schudder of Princeton and Mrs. Elizabeth Jones of Bordentown; a sister, Miss Ruth Monroe of Maryland; 12 grandchildren, several great-grandchildren and a great-great-granddaughter.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home with the Rev. Olin D. McGowen officiating. Burial was in Ewing Cemetery.

Herman Schielke, 64, of Village Road West, West Windsor Township, died December 19, in Princeton Hospital from a heart attack. He was the husband of Mrs. Bertha Schultz Schielke.

Born in Trenton, Mr. Schielke had operated a farm for many years. He was a past member of the West Windsor Fire Company and was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, having served in World War I.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ira Maumgis of DuBois, Pa.; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Schmitt and Miss Lena Schielke of Trenton; and three brothers, Alfred of Cranbury, Carl of Trenton and George of Washington's Crossing.

The service was held Saturday at the Saul Colonial Home, Hamilton Square, with burial in Greenwood Cemetery, Trenton.

Mrs. Ruth A. Blackwell, 73, of West Franklin Street, Pennington, died December 19. A former Hopewell resident, she was a member of Hopewell Chapter 112, OES.

Survivors are her husband, John S. Blackwell; two daughters, Mrs. George Voorhees of Hopewell and Mrs. Robert A. Chalton of Pennington; three sisters, Mrs. Walter Ewing and Mrs. Elijah R. Ashton of Hopewell, and Mrs. Walter Harris of Blawenburg; a brother, William Sked of Pennington; three grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

The service was held at the Cromwell Memorial Home with the Rev. John H. Ginter of Hopewell Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was in Highland Cemetery.

J. V. D. Bergen, 82, of Line Road, Belle Mead, died December 21 in Somerset Hospital, Somerville, after a brief illness. A farmer and breeder of Holstein cattle prior to his retirement in 1951, he was a former president of the Hillsborough Township Board of Education, a position he held for 12 years, and a former member of Township Committee.

Mr. Bergen had been a director of the Belle Mead Farmers Cooperative Association. He and his wife, Blanche M. Bergen, would have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on December 31.

Surviving him, in addition to his wife, are three sons, four daughters, two sisters and 22 grandchildren. The funeral took place at the Harlingen Reformed Church, with interment in Belle Mead Cemetery.

Mrs. Violet M. Black, 57, of Village Road West, Dutch Neck, died December 20 at her home. The wife of Edward R. Black, she had lived in Princeton for 14 years and in Dutch Neck for the past eight years.

She was a native of Camden and a member of the Princeton Methodist Church.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a son, Frederick R. Black of Collingswood; a daughter, Mrs. Harry W. Dodge, Jr. of Chevy Chase, Md.; her father, William Quigley, Sr. of Fort Pierce, Fla.; two brothers, William Quigley of Pitman and Herbert Quigley of Collingswood; seven sisters, Mrs. Margaret Druce of Marlton, O., Mrs. Betty Stokes of Woodland, Mrs. Rhoda Gormley of Collingswood, Mrs. Ethel Haines of Colwyn, Pa., Mrs. Edith Paterson of Brooklawn, Mrs. Myrtle Bailey of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Thelma Beister of Almonesson; and three grandchildren.

The Rev. Charles W. Marker, pastor of the Princeton Methodist Church, officiated at the service, held at the Kimble Funeral Home. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Laurence George Payson, 68, died suddenly December 20 in New York City where he had lived for 40 years. Born in Englewood, he graduated from Princeton University in 1916 and served in World War I. He was listed in "Who's Who," and was secretary of the Society of the New York Hospital, Cornell Medical Center.

Surviving are his wife, Eleanor Parker Payson; two sons, William S. Payson and Phillips H. Payson; and a daughter, Mrs. Constance A. Pike. The funeral was held at the Central Presbyterian Church, New York City.

girls of West Windsor has completed several Christmas service projects.

The troop made stuffed animals for the New Jersey retarded children's group and doorknob Christmas decorations for their mothers. On the 18th, they presented a Christmas wreath they had made to the Princeton Junction Post Office. Earlier, nine members attended a concert given by the Korean War Orphans Chorus held in the Bridgewater-Raritan High School, each contributing to the offering.

Troop members are Lynn Addison, Susan Bringen, Nancy Cawley, Gail Clendenin, Carol Czeslowski, Patricia Kidd, Grace Mahaffey, Sharon McHugh, Betty Rawley, Deborah Reynolds, Peggy Sietz, Judy Smith, Joanne Greschik and Donna Ilesta. They are led by Mrs. Jack Reynolds and Mrs. C. C. Mahaffey.

THISTLE LODGE TO MEET

For Christmas Program. The members of Thistle Lodge 220, Daughters of Scotia, will meet at 8 p.m. this Friday for a Christmas party. The gathering will be held in Odd Fellows Hall, 23½ Witherspoon Street.

Chief Daughter Mrs. Constance Henderson will preside, and Past Chief Daughter Mrs. Betty MacLean will be hostess. Christmas gifts will be exchanged.

REGISTRATION IN PROCESS

For Life Saving Course. Registrations for a YMCA Junior Life Saving course, open to scouts seeking a life saving merit badge, are now being taken by the Princeton YMCA.

Combining aquatics with lectures, the course will start January 11 and continue for 12 weeks. David Tomlinson, YMCA aquatic examiner and Red Cross water safety teacher, will be the instructor.

COURSE PLANNED

On Civil Defense. West Windsor Township Civil Defense and Disaster Control will hold a familiarization course on the use of radiation monitoring equipment in January.

Sessions from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. are scheduled on three successive Wednesdays beginning on January 9. The classes will be held in the Civil Defense Headquarters on the second floor of the Town Hall in Dutch Neck.

FOUR LOSE LICENSES

For Speeding. Four Princeton area drivers have had their licenses revoked under the State's 60 70 excessive speed program.

They are: Leonard F Newton, 37, 90 Dempsey Avenue; Ernest A. Buford, 24, 305 Witherspoon Street; James M. McDonald, 22, Cranbury; and Ronald J. Maddalon, 25, Route 27. All lost their licenses for 30 days.

TOWN TOPICS reaches every home in the Princeton area. By their own figures, no other Princeton newspaper does half as well.

NOTICE. As of December 1, the initial billing charge for TOWN TOPICS classified advertisements has been increased from 15 to 25 cents. The cost of the advertisement itself remains unchanged ($1.25 for 30 words or less) but the expense of carrying such charges for periods ranging from one to six months is so great that the billing charge is being raised in the belief that it will increase the number of cash payments. As in the past, there will be no billing charge for any advertisement paid for within six days of publication. 12-6-3t

341 NASSAU STREET • PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY • WA 1-2776

LOOKING FOR a good house for a couple or for a young family? Township location, within walking distance to schools and shops. Sizeable living room with dining area, efficiently planned kitchen, three bedrooms and one bath, carport and storage area. The feaced yard becomes a private, summer living room. Easily maintained grounds. Many trees. $22,500

FACING the rolling acres of Princeton's historic battlefield, this home represents a builder's pride, a designer's skill, and a housewife's delight. From the tip of its special motor-driveo TV aerial to its two available separate water systems (both town and well), no detail has been overlooked in making this a house of exceptional merit, comfort and gentility. There are five large, sunny bedrooms upstairs. There is a handsome Italian verde antique marble fireplace in the living room downstairs, a large dining room, a quiet paneled study, a powder room and an airy fully screened porch downstairs. The kitchen is a model of efficiency and attractiveness. The grounds have been carefully landscaped by a leading professional. Ours exclusively. $69,000

RED CAPE COD home in Riverside area with center hall, big living room with fireplace, dining room, adjoining porch, kitchen with breakfast area, four bedrooms, 2 baths, recreation room, full cellar. Very appealing home and completely adaptable to almost any size family. $44,000

EXCELLENT FAMILY HOME. A household with many children or generations blending together would find both space and privacy in this custom home with an exceptional, well-treed, fenced yard. Entrance hall, living room, dining room and lovely kitchen are together. The big playroom with outside entrance is down, as is a bath and a children's coat room. Upstairs, 3 bright bedrooms, with their own baths. Guest room, master bedrooms and bath are separate. Large basement and garage; terrace, 5 bedrooms, 2½ baths. $52,000

WHERE BUT IN PRINCETON? An old Colonial home in the Borough, with the patina that only a house that has long been lived in and well loved can acquire. The first floor includes living room with a hand-carved marble fireplace, study, step-down to dining room, compact kitchen and a full bath. On the second floor there are three bedrooms, one with a fireplace and a bath. $55,000

EXCEPTIONAL RENTAL in exceptionally choice Princeton Borough location. The home has four bedrooms and four baths. It also has a living room with a fireplace, dining room, and study. The kitchen is equipped with RCA Whirlpool appliances. There is a full attic, a two-car garage. Available until September 1, 1963, at a monthly rental price of $350.

WHAT IS "character dance"? . . . The term character dance is a translation from the French "danse de caractere." It is a ballet term used to describe roles which are not straight leads, but "character parts." It also describes the group dances used in ballets and operas which are not purely classical but draw from national dances of various countries for inspiration and form. The Moiseyev Ballet, for instance, dances entirely in the "character" medium—that is, the theatricalized form of various national dances. Aparri School of Dance is offering a course in character dance to be given Saturdays, from 1:30 to 2:30, for ten sessions, January 5 through March 9th, at the Studio, 217 Nassau Street, by Virginia Karczewski, of New York City, soloist in the company of Yurek Lazowski, noted Polish dancer and choreographer. This course is open to high school and college students and young adults with some previous training in dancing. Registration will be at the Studio, 217 Nassau Street, on Friday, January 4th, 4 to 6. Additional information may be obtained during the vacation by calling WA 4-1622. 12-20-3t

NOTICE. As of December 1, the initial billing charge for TOWN TOPICS classified advertisements has been increased from 10 to 25 cents. The cost of the advertisement itself remains unchanged ($1.25 for 30 words or less) but the expense of carrying such charges for periods ranging from one to six months is so great that the billing charge is being raised in the belief that it will increase the number of cash payments. As in the past, there will be no billing charge for any advertisement paid for within six days of publication. 12-6-3t
